

WANT CONFERENCE ON MEXICAN TERRITORY

MEETING TO DECIDE GOVERNMENT OF MEXICO MAY BE HELD ON BORDER.

TO WITHDRAW TROOPS

Expect to Hear From Carranza in a Week—Special Session at Torreon Called.

Washington, July 8.—Mexican territory probably will be chosen for the scene of a conference between the United States and the constitutional delegates over plans for the establishment of a provisional government. Constitutional representatives in Washington today expressed a preference for a neutral place in Mexico—probably along the border—for the peace parley. Two of the Niagara Falls mediators—Ambassador Latham and Minister Suarez—were to confer in New York today over details of the meeting.

All troops will be drawn from the scene of the place so that the delegates on both sides would be free from local influences.

Members of the constitutional junta said today that an answer from General Carranza as to participation in the conference would arrive within another week.

Special Session.
Torreón, July 8.—A special session of the Carranza-Villa reconciliation conference called, it is understood, for the purpose of drawing up a public statement outlining what has been done by the conference, was completed last night.

Rosales, Garza, a Villa man, at one of the sessions of the conference, predicted that the statement would bring about a complete understanding between Villa and Carranza.

Announcement.
Nogales, Mexico, July 8.—In a message to Carranza, dated yesterday at Ahuacalco, General Obregon reported an important insurgent victory in front of Guadaluajara.

We have destroyed a federal column of five hundred men, mostly Yaqui Indians, who had been under command of Major Pablo Matos of the federal army. Alvarado added that he had assurances that more of the federal troops would be deserting.

Carranza's Answer.
Carranza's answer declining to confer, had not yet been sent to the United States. It was, however, expressed by those in close touch with the situation as to what that answer would be.

The constitutional position, it was said, is that an agreement to accept a provisional government must cause the outbreak of other revolutionary movements. They pointed to the happening following Madero's agreement to allow La Barrera to be named provisional president, and declared that the agreement for a provisional government could scarcely be entered into with the followers of Huerta before a dozen new revolts would break out in the spring in as many different quarters.

The constitutionalists asserted that the reforms for which they are striving only can be placed in successful operation within the framework of the government under military rule, such as Benito Juarez, operated in Vera Cruz.

May Refuse Conference.
Laredo, Tex., July 8.—The constitutionalists are unlikely to accept the offer of the Niagara mediators for a conference with representatives of Huerta to arrange a provisional government in Mexico. This announcement, coming from unquestioned sources, reached here today.

It was declared by arrivals here that generals of the constitutionalist army to whom the question was submitted for advice by general, who with the exception of the generals of Obregon's division, who had not had time to report, strongly opposed any such conference.

WOMEN THREATEN BURNS' BIRTHPLACE

Famous Cottage of Ayr Faces Ruin—Night Watchman Captures One of Squad.

Glascow, Scotland, July 8.—An attempt to destroy the cottage of Ayr, where Robert Burns, the poet, was born, January 25, 1733, was made just before daylight today by two women of the militant suffragette "arsen squad."

The two women were surprised by a night watchman as they were placing a large bomb against the doors of the cottage. The women were captured and the other escaped.

The women were stockinged over their shoes to deaden the noise and hid their footprints. The arrested woman gave her name as Jennet Arthur. She created a scene when taken away from the police station fighting the watchman and shouting quotations from poems.

Raid Dumbarton.
Dumbarton, Scotland, July 8.—Militant suffragettes made a desperate attempt today to attract the attention of King George and Queen Mary, who are making a tour through Scotland. At Balloch bridge, at the foot of Loch Lomond, the women cut down all decorations, and at Dalmuir, ten miles from Dumbarton, managed in taking out large banners bearing the words "Your majesty, stop the forcible entry and torture of women" across the route as the procession arrived. At the same time one woman armed with a megaphone howled denunciations of forcible feeding.

Neither the king nor the queen paid the slightest attention, but the crowd was gathered to see the majesty, displayed such a hostile attitude that the militants beat a hasty retreat.

TROUBLE CONTINUES IN COPPER COUNTRY

Over Same Issues As Last Year, Carried on Secretly by Factions.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Calumet, Mich., July 8.—A labor war as bitter as that which marked the strike of last year is again in progress in Michigan's copper country.

The same issues are at stake and the same forces are pitted against each other.

The present struggle is merely a continuation of the old, capital against labor, with the main issue the right of the miners to organize.

The new fight is being carried on secretly—beneath the surface—and there are few open clashes, but both sides realize that it is merely preliminary to a struggle that will make last year's famous strike appear insignificant.

The district is filled to overflowing with workers for union organizations who are secretly carrying their propaganda to the miners. The labor organizations—the Western Federation of Miners, the I. W. W. and the United Mine Workers of America—have active representatives in the district and are fast organizing the workers for another strike. Hundreds of former members of the Western Federation of Miners are said to be again affiliating with that organization, and the other labor bodies are said to be meeting with success in their campaign for members.

But the routine operators have not been idle. Their power threatened, the mining companies are using every weapon at their command to halt the further march of unionism.

Through their elaborate underground secret service systems they are identifying those of their employees who affiliate with the unions and are ordering their immediate discharge. Workers make the charge that many who are merely suspected of affiliating with the labor unions are dismissed from their positions.

Their new struggle is not confined to the copper country alone. Throughout the iron fields a similar situation is developing. The Socialists, ever powerful in the iron mining districts, are reported to be giving their entire support to the effort to unionize the men. In former years the socialists refused to throw their influence on the side of the federal agitators and their changed attitude now is said to have doubled the chances for a successful invasion of the iron fields by the labor organization.

When open warfare will be resumed no one seems willing to admit, but both sides realize that it is as certain to come as tomorrow's sun, and they are preparing for it.

BANKERS IN ACCORD WITH KUOLT RULING

President Moehlenpach of State Association and Others Approve Decision in Milwaukee Case.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., July 8.—Bankers of the state have agreed with the Commissioner of Banking A. E. Kuolt's decision in withholding approval of an application for a charter for a new bank at Mosinee, which decision was overruled by the appeal board according to officials of the state banking department.

Already two groups, those at Madison and Green Bay, have adopted resolutions upholding the Commissioner's decision. The Commissioner's decision is a disappointing establishment of new banks in places where the facilities are already adequate or where the promoters are unworthy.

The subject will doubtless be further discussed at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Bankers' association at Milwaukee, July 15 to 16.

The attitude of H. A. Moehlenpach of Clinton, president of the association, is expressed in the following excerpt from a letter to Commissioner Kuolt: "I shall make a point of urging all bankers to support you in the matter of the granting of bank charters. I shall call their attention to the action of the appeal board in the recent Mosinee case."

More outspoken still was H. C. Wetzel, cashier of the Bank of State Bank, who offered the assurance that the state banks in his vicinity are in strong accord and agree with him fully in his Mosinee decision.

"It is nothing short of an outrage," he wrote, "when you vested with authority should be overruled in your judgment by what would appear to be a political machine. Apropos of the situation, at the moment, while it is far from such a condition of affairs existing in our good state of Wisconsin as now exist in Illinois, your statement to the effect that we are having our state overruled by a political machine is not far from the truth."

He refused to be interviewed further, but he said that he would be glad to discuss the matter with anyone who would call on him.

Madison, Wis., July 8.—Colonel John H. Hannon, private secretary to Senator La Follette, is in Madison and is taking notes of the state political situation. He declined to be interviewed, but he said that he would be glad to discuss the matter with anyone who would call on him.

OWEN FILES ANSWER IN SUIT INVOLVING LOCAL WATER PLANT

Attorney General Contends That Janesville Water Company's Bondholders Are Fully Secured.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., July 8.—The attorney general's office today filed an answer in the suit brought by Frank M. Jones as trustee for the bondholders of the Janesville Water Company, who have sought to restrain the railroad commission from turning over the property to the city of Janesville under the indeterminate permit law. Jones was a resident of Illinois, but brought his suit in the federal court for the western district of Wisconsin, claiming that the bondholders were about to be deprived of just compensation, guaranteed by state and federal constitutions.

In the answer of Attorney General Owen today it is contended that the bondholders are fully secured by the securities of the water company. The company's property was valued two years ago at about $250,000. Mr. Owen declares there is no danger of the bondholders being defrauded and that the money was paid in full for the bonds.

INSURANCE REPORT COMPLETE FOR 1913

Commissioner Ekern Makes Out Complete Table of Statistics for Past Year.

Madison, Wis., July 8.—The report on life insurance for Wisconsin for 1913, made by Insurance Commissioner Ekern, shows that the life companies and fraternal societies during the year paid death claims amounting to $5,827,876, and collected from policyholders and members $13,945,066. The number of death claims was 7,513 on a total of 508,178 policies and certificates.

There is thus one policy or certificate for every three persons out of the 2,500,000 people in Wisconsin. Almost one-half of the total, or 233 policies, are in the industrial tenets of a week policies, which are written wholly in cities and villages. The industrial death claims numbered 3,158, and amounted to $3,949,785, against $1,894,878.41 paid by the policyholders.

The total number of policies is the almost 400,000 industrial policies are the almost 250,000 fraternal certificates. The fraternal societies paid in death claims $2,521,852, against $3,511,093 collected from their members. The industrial death claims were 2,788 out of 246,945 certificates.

The legal reserve life companies paid 1,276 death claims, amounting to $2,208,032. They collected $7,667,428 in premiums on 144,658 policies. In addition, the companies collected $1,750,207, or 25,000 policies on which $1,174,892 was paid in premiums.

The total benefits promised in Wisconsin policies and certificates at the end of 1913 was $63,211,869, about one-third of the total for the United States. Of this, the fraternal certificates promised nearly one-half, or $308,673,789. The legal reserve companies follow with $248,492,888, which should be added the insurance companies, amounting to $4,671,239. The industrial policies, almost half the number of the 800,000 policies and certificates, amount to $48,423,393, or less than one-thirtieth of the total amount of insurance in force in the state.

INQUIRY CLOSES AT NOON IN FREEPORT'S BIG MURDER CASE

Mrs. Carman Denies She Wore Black Skirt and White Waist—Daughter On Stand.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Freeport, N. Y., July 8.—The inquiry into the death of Mrs. Lottie Bailey, who was murdered on the night of Tuesday, June 30, in the office of Dr. Edwin Carman, a practicing physician of this village, closed shortly before noon today.

Ellsworth Barden, a new witness, testified that just after he heard the shot he saw a woman he was unable to identify, running away from the office of Dr. Carman. She wore a black skirt and a white shirt waist. The witnesses who testified previously swore that Mrs. Carman was thus dressed the night of the murder. Mrs. Carman denied it, and said she was dressed in a kimono and was in her bedroom.

In this contention Mrs. Carman was borne out on the stand today by her young daughter, Elizabeth.

Mrs. Edwin Carman was arrested this afternoon in connection with the murder of Mrs. Lottie Bailey. She was taken into custody at her home, where Mrs. Bailey, a patient of her husband, was shot on the night of June 30. A charge of murder was lodged against her.

STEPHENSON URGED TO ENTER THE RACE

Friends of Senator May Induce Him to Seek Renomination for United States Senator.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., July 8.—Political forecasters here predict that before the time limit for filing nominations expires, Senator Stephenson will have been induced to enter the race for re-nomination for United States senator on the republican ticket. The claim is made that some of the senator's friends have been making an examination of the votes cast in various localities for different candidates in the last six years to ascertain the trend of public sentiment and to determine whether or not the six candidates for the senatorship already in the field it might not be possible for Stephenson to gain a re-nomination.

No Announcement Made.
The letters written to Senator Stephenson from here, as to the possibility of his candidacy, have received but scant notice, and no definite announcement has been made that he does not intend to enter the race. His friends say he is in better health than when he entered the campaign six years ago. He has just passed his eighty-fifth birthday, and is expected to live for many years.

Stephenson was first elected in May, 1907, to fill the unexpired term of John C. Spooner, resigned. He was re-elected by the legislature in 1909 and his present term expires March 4, 1915.

The present republican candidates are Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris, La Crosse; Governor F. E. McGovern, Milwaukee; Assemblyman C. E. Hancock, Milwaukee; Levi H. Bancroft, former speaker of the assembly and attorney general, Richland Center; State Senator Timothy Burke, Green Bay; and Attorney Charles D. Smith, Fond du Lac.

While John A. Aylward of this city is a tentative democratic candidate, it is hinted that he may retire and that State Senator Charles H. Hastings of Manitowish, who has been defeated by the prohibition party, will have no candidate, and it is circulating literature urging the nomination of Governor McGovern, who supported Roosevelt for president two years ago.

The prohibition party has endorsed Charles L. Hill of Rosendale for the nomination, and the social democrats have named Emil Seidel of Milwaukee as their standard-bearer in this fight.

NEW YORK MOOSERS INSIST ROOSEVELT SHALL LEAD PARTY

Progressive Leaders Will Bring Pressure on Colonel to Enter Race for Governor.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, July 8.—Whether Colonel Roosevelt will accept the progressive nomination for governor of New York may be decided today at a meeting at progressive national headquarters here of the state leaders.

Delegates of the progressive party came from New York, various parts of the state to urge Colonel Roosevelt to take the nomination. They said frankly that they had no other candidate and had not even considered another name for the head of the ticket.

Colonel Roosevelt was confronted with the alternative of either consenting to be the head of ticket or declining to heed the urging of virtually all of the prominent leaders of his party in the state.

Ever since his return from Europe, Colonel Roosevelt has been receiving letters and telegrams from progressives in all parts of the country, urging him not to accept the nomination. In some cases it has been charged that the progressives are willing to pay the chance of injuring the party in the nation for the sake of making a good showing in New York.

For two hours today the progressive leaders of New York pressed every argument at their command to induce Colonel Roosevelt to agree to be the head of the ticket.

JOHN D. CELEBRATES HIS 76TH BIRTHDAY

World's Richest Man and Oil King Seventy-six Years of Age Today—Health Is Improved.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Tarrytown, N. Y., July 8.—John D. Rockefeller, oil king and "the richest man in the world," today is celebrating his seventy-sixth birthday. Because it was feared that the "Free Speechers," the I. W. W. and the Ferrer anarchists might pick today as a good one for another demonstration against Rockefeller because of his attitude in the recent Colorado strike war, a heavier guard than usual was placed about the great mansion in Pocantico Hills. The oil king's son, John D. Jr., was expected to spend the day here with his father.

Hundreds of telegrams and messages of congratulation poured into the Rockefeller home today from all sections of the globe, where Rockefeller has business and personal friends. Many messages came from royalty and the heads of European governments. Rockefeller's 76th birthday is celebrated with a fortune close to a billion, thus making him the only billionaire in the world. The assessment of his property in Cleveland some months ago, when he refused to pay taxes there, placed his holdings far in excess of $500,000,000.

According to John D.'s physician, Dr. F. H. Bigger, Rockefeller's health is better today than it has been in many years. He has continued to play a game of golf, an automobile ride, and perhaps a bicycle ride. Despite many reports that Rockefeller's health is bad, Dr. Bigger declares that his patient is in excellent health and vigorous for a man of his years, and especially when the early cares and worries he went through are taken into consideration.

MRS. PANKHURST AND OTHERS ARRESTED

Suffragette Situation Comes to an End As Leader Resumes Command.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, July 8.—The brief respite in the militant suffragette situation ended today when Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst resumed command of the forces of the women's social and political union at their London headquarters. Mrs. Pankhurst, who had been in her office at noon, was, however, permitted to remain in active command of the militants for only a very brief period.

Simultaneously with the arrest of Mrs. Pankhurst, a violent scene was created in the center of London when Mrs. Alice Hall, Miss Row, Miss Julia Jameson and Ellen Armes were brought up for trial for conspiracy. The charges against them were of a conspiracy to commit damage and injuries to and to spoil real and personal property of our lord, the king.

The prisoners had been arrested during the trial of a west end hotel on May 21. In their rooms were found a new shrapnel shell of ingenious manufacture, coils of fuse and plans of houses, with instructions how to use them and how to use the usual movements of the police.

Miss Row and Mrs. Hall, when brought into court, refused to plead. They threw papers and pens from the dock, and the court was obliged to comment on their treatment in Holloway jail. Two policemen and five women attendants started to carry them out of the court to the cell block, when the judge decided to proceed with the trial in the absence of the two women. Mrs. Hall threw herself on the floor and started to kick several policemen.

Seventy-nine Years Ago And Now.

Seventy-nine years ago today the Liberty Bell tolled for the last time. On that day the order proclaiming the nation's grief over the death of Chief Justice John Marshall, whose body was being taken from Philadelphia to its final resting place in Virginia. Suddenly the tone of the bell changed. It became muffled as with grief. The bell-ringer hurried to the tower of the State House. He found a great crack in the side of the bell. In the circumstance many professed to see a fitting climax to one of the most important epochs in the nation's history. Fifty-nine years before the bell had rung out the glad tidings that the Declaration of Independence had been signed and adopted. This day its tongue forever became silent during the funeral services of Chief Justice Marshall, the last of the Signers of the Declaration and the last of George Washington's associates. Once before the bell had cracked, made in England at the order and expense of the Colony of Pennsylvania, it was brought to Philadelphia in 1776, where it was given its first test for tone. The first blow of the clapper made a wide crack in the bell. A Philadelphia firm offered to recast it and rather than wait for its return from England the Colonists turned it over to them. The foundrymen thought to increase the sweetness of its tone by increasing the proportion of copper, but they decanted the tone so that it could hardly be heard. Again the bell was recast and it was proving successful this time, it was hung in the State House steeple, where the following eighty-two years its tongue heralded every important national event.

Today Liberty Bell lies in state in the State House in Philadelphia, where its first clarion post of liberty rang out. It is one of the nation's most revered relics and every year thousands of pilgrims from all parts of the country visit this shrine. Before it was placed in its present glass case one might often see distinguished men, women and patriotic school children put out their hands to touch the sacred relic. It was with a similar feeling that President Wilson once visited it and after gazing at it for some moments earnestly exclaimed: "I would love to just lay my hand upon the bell." His wish was readily granted, the guide having the case opened for the distinguished visitor. Six times has the venerable bell been carried to distant cities to take part in anniversaries and exhibitions. Ninety thousand school children successfully applied to the governor of Pennsylvania to have it sent to the St. Louis exposition. During the anniversary of the Battle ofunker Hill it was escorted through the streets of Boston by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company, itself a relic of the Revolutionary times. It was adorned with wreaths, and the spectators, many of them being women, kissed its brazen sides with reverence. It has journeyed into the South three times, to New Orleans, Atlanta and Charleston. Two months ago it was reported that the crack in the bell is gradually becoming larger, and special precautions have been taken to preserve the bell for the future generations.

DISPENSES WITH YARDSTICK

Automatic Means of Measuring Material in the Piece.

Some of the finer materials made use of in the manufacture of wearing apparel for men and women are now put up which not only offers an increased protection for the delicate fabric, but also presents the ready means of measuring off the material in any desired length without the aid of the usual yardstick. The new invention consists of a sheet of material, usually paper, which is laid on the surface of the material and then rolled with it when the latter is folded into roll or bolt. The filler is slightly wider than the material with which it is packed, and the edges are turned under, to protect the edge of the cloth which it embraces, and it is further cut with openings in a regular manner, so as to reveal the colors and design of the material which it shelters. Along the edge of the paper are figures indicating the yards and fractions, so that any desired length may be quickly cut off with this for a guide.

WELSH NEW KING OF LIGHTWEIGHTS AFTER DEFEATING RITCHIE

American Champion Loses to Freddie Welsh After Twenty Rounds of Fighting at London.

After eighteen years of rest in the United States the lightweight championship went across the "pond" to England last night, when Freddie Welsh, sturdy Welshman, won the decision over Willie Ritchie, the American champion, after twenty rounds of the most skilled and advanced fight yet in London. For eight years almost the life of the fighter, Welsh knocked at the pugilistic door of fame in vain until last night fortune smiled on him and this morning the crown had a new wearer.

An added jolt came to Americans on the result of the fight, for John Bull put another victory over Uncle Sam, to put on the ledger of sports with the polo cup, golf and relay victories. Jansville fans remember that Welsh boxed an exhibition bout at the rink three years ago. The new champion was put on in the local ring just before his bout with Packey McFarland, which Welsh lost the decision at Milwaukee.

The verdict given by Referee Corri in the London bout last night was not questioned for ring skill, headwork in fighting and generalship was pitted against willingness, and youth and skill won. Welsh had no easy time holding his victory, for Ritchie ruled and shook the Britisher with stiff rights, but Welsh's left counter that he would slip across to the champion's jaw after Ritchie lead, dashed away the American's hope for victory. Welsh showed he was a past master at the finer arts of the game, blocking, dodging, countering, and had a clear lead in seven rounds, eight were a draw, and Ritchie lead in five.

Ritchie took all Welsh handed out and never backed up, and his blows were plainly more effective. The American was weak on distance, losing golden chances to put across his famed right upper cut and hook that won him the championship when he had the Britisher in a tight place.

In one round, the 13th, Ritchie looked like a winner, for he caught Welsh with three rights that made the challenger glad to be able to hang on to wait until the cobwebs cleared away from his eyes. The further the fight progressed the stamina of the American and his willingness to mix earned him even shades in the rounds.

Ritchie hoped to win by a knock-out, for he planned his battle around a right punch that would send Welsh to dreamland. The punch never landed, for the clever Welsh sidestepped, covered, whenever the American timed his swing. The more Ritchie tried to "sneak" across his hard right upper cut, the more the Britisher closed up and fought with dazzling speed that bewildered the man from U. S. A. The last three rounds Ritchie opened up a notch while Welsh warily circled and covered up against the American's fierce rushes. In the last round the Welchman waded into the champion and clinched the verdict.

Welsh was a favorite in the betting, and vast fortunes changed hands on the outcome of the match. Charley White, who gave Ritchie a trouncing in Milwaukee, even worse than Welsh did, sent the Briton a challenge, and Packey McFarland, who defeated Welsh, ten rounds, in 1908 in Milwaukee, is another who hopes to bring home the crown to the native land.

TENNIS ATTRACTING A LARGE FOLLOWING

Y. M. C. A. Has Excellent Courts—Playgrounds Are Laying Out Plots for Racket Followers.

If anybody should ask you what the leading sport in Jansville is today, you would be safe in answering that tennis surpasses even the national pastime in popularity. Number of players engaged, and in time spent. All credit for the introduction of tennis in this city goes to the Y. M. C. A., which has for five or six years made this sport popular through clubs of not more than twenty or thirty members. This year the ranks of the club have swelled to over forty with even better prospects ahead. The association boys were noticed at the game several years ago and the majority are beginners yet. The reason for this is that following the close of every season what veterans were in the club, either dropped out or left the city, thus leaving the club with only new inexperienced players to commence the following season. This season will see many of the old-timers, back as well as enthusiastic youngsters, anxious to break into the game.

Where golf reigned supreme a few years ago, tennis is now in its place. The playgrounds have been forced to heed the call of the youngsters to instate tennis courts on each of the school lots. The Webster and Washington ground directors have already complied with their demands, and following the placing of courts at the Adams and Jefferson grounds, a league will undoubtedly be formed, to make the excitement in tennis even more intense.

It would be a hard matter to locate every back-yard tennis court in the city. Every yard can claim a score or more such spots, where the children are early becoming masters at the game. It is just these places at and about the home that brings about champions, and it is at these courts that many of the association members acquired their ability at the game.

Tennis continues to attract a large following of active players. Interest in baseball is centered in one team practically. Golf is played by only those who are members of the Sinalissippi club. About the only live sport outside of the three mentioned is swimming, but this can hardly be classed with the healthy game of tennis. No less than two hundred are playing tennis in this city at the present time, and after the playgrounds have their own courts the number may reach three or four hundred with prospects of having a game to satisfy everyone before the close of the year.

Would you spend your money judiciously—keep your eyes on the bargains the merchants are offering in these columns.

Sport Snap Shots

It was early in the season that Hank O'Day announced that his Cubs would not be in shape to start until May 15. At the time the statement was made many who heard laughed in a derisive fashion. It was generally thought that this would have a beautiful time getting started at any season. Right now is a good time for the captious ones of a few months ago to take a look at the National-League standing. Some of them, and without a satisfactory shortstop at that, Hank has managed to steer his team up into second place or near it and he is in position to make the Giants little uneasy at any time. A number of unkind things were said about Hank when he started out with the Cubs and it must be a satisfaction to him now to be able to cuff all his critics. More than several of the Red players who had had a season under O'Day declare that he'd never get anywhere at all with the Cubs and that after he'd been thrown out of the whole team would be ready to quit. It would seem that the Cub players are a little more manageable than the Reds. And though the Reds are making a wonderful time of it this season, Hank O'Day and his Cubs are right with them and then a bit.

Ball players should have a care about the comedy stuff they pull. They can go a little too far with it at times. The other day in Brooklyn when Philadelphia was playing there Dode Paskert, Philly outfielder, being vexed and outraged at a decision the umpire knelt down and clasped his hands in an attitude of prayer. Charlie Ebbets, the Brooklyn president, raised all kinds of dence about it. Ebbets said that it was blasphemous and insulting to any members of the clergy that might be present. There may be a bit of truth in this, but as a rule a ball player's behavior is accountable to the umpire and no one else. Ebbets, however, was so infuriated that he reported the matter to President Tener and hoped that Paskert would draw a neat little fine for it. Rather hard on Dode when it is most likely that he pulled his little comedy in a thoughtful moment and with no intention of offending the most ascetic.

Mike Murphy, prominent trainer, used to be a professional sprinter when he lived at Natick, Mass. And the chances are that Mike would be a sprinter yet but he couldn't make a living at it and so he worked up a bottled beer route and for quite a while was doing nicely. However, along in 1888 a new no-livence law came along and Mike traded in the towns he had been selling and he was obliged to abandon the bottled beer business. There seemed nothing else to it than starting in as a professional trainer, which he did and has done ever since. His friend, Mike Finn, landed him a job at Yale and it was not very much later that Murphy became famous in his line.

Freddie Welsh's sister is his chief trainer, being at his camp when he trains for every fight. She cooks everything he eats while preparing for a bout. It is thought, however, that his goose is a little bit of cooking that will be left to Willie Ritchie.

The Pirates have recently signed a recruit to fill the hole of Hodis Wagner when the vet retires. The recruit may look forward to a long and lonely season on the bench.

APOLLO THEATRE.

(From the N. Y. Journal.)
"The Drug Terror," a six-reel motion picture just put on at the Park theatre, Columbus Circle, in the campaign to expose and crush out the menace to children and others of cocaine and heroin, is one of the finest examples of motion picture photography yet produced. The picture is replete with wonderful detail and perspective, and one can hardly realize that the scenes are not being portrayed by living persons.
"This picture has been produced with great care and at great expense. It is being presented as part of the national crusade instituted by Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Sr., and the #### Sociological Fund of the Medical Review of Reviews.

"The picture portrays every step in the life of a drug victim. It shows the life of a young society man who dies miserably as a result of becoming a victim of drugs. The picture exposes the methods of dealers, the dens in which the drug is used, and peddlers selling to little school children drug tainted candies.
"Through it all runs a love story, which ends in a broken home and wrecked lives."

JULY 4TH MOTION PICTURES SHOWN SOON.

The moving pictures of the Non-such Bros. circus parade of Saturday will be shown at the Apollo theatre the first part of next week. The Zenith Motion Picture company secured very good views of the entire parade and they are rapidly finishing the reels so that they can be shown early. They will remain the property of the Apollo while copies of the reels will be sent over the country through one of the "Weeklies."

Truth vs. Falsehood.

Truth is irresistible. Falsehood may for a time stay its progress, but it cannot prevent its eventual triumph. An economic fact, founded on nature, will win its way despite the combined forces of those who benefit by inequitable customs and wicked laws. There can be but one conclusion to the battle of truth vs. falsehood.

Possibly Resent the Training.

"The trouble about husbands," remarked the square-jawed woman, "is that after you get them thoroughly trained to shut all the windows when it rains, and feed the bird and look after the rubber plant they get so sickly looking and discouraged they cast a gloom over the household."

Development of Sympathy.

It may, indeed, be said that sympathy exists in all minds, as Faraday has discovered that magnetism exists in all metals; but a certain temperature is required to develop the hidden property, whether in the metal or the mind.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THAT QUEER THING CALLED PRIDE

More I must say it. In a newspaper the other day was a letter from one of the readers who said she had tried to save money on her husband's salary. She said she had found that because they lived so simply none of the people in the neighborhood into which they had moved were calling upon them. So she and her husband decided that it wasn't worth while, and they gave up trying to save and bought a handsome automobile. People at once began calling. Now she has plenty of nice friends (save the mark!), including "I am proud to say some of the best people in the neighborhood" and she and her husband are both satisfied. "I often let the butcher's bill go unpaid," she concludes, "in order to be able to entertain my friends properly, and my husband says I do quite right."

Think what that means. This woman is too proud to associate with people on her own financial plane, but she is not too proud to leave her butcher's bill unpaid. In passing, I cannot help wondering how she can resist friendship which is so obviously bought and paid for. There was a time in my life when I was obliged to be distinctly shabby. This time passed. Needless to say, the manners of several of my acquaintances became much more cordial. Yet after an exhibition of this new cordiality a wave of sadness and regret that human nature must be so small would often pass over me.

To return to the main road, I know a school teacher with a small salary who has several wealthy college friends who give her expensive gifts at Christmas. She is too proud to let them give according to their means and return the gift according to hers, so she tries to give them equally expensive gifts. Of course she cannot put a very large sum aside for Christmas presents, but she is a good manager. She buys the expensive gifts for her wealthy friends, and then with what is left she buys very simple gifts for her family. Despite the fact that they have made many sacrifices for her education and can afford pathetically few luxuries, she is not too proud to give them simple, not to say mean gifts.

Again, I know another girl who was too proud to live in a third-story room when that was all her salary as a stenographer would allow. But she was not too proud to pay the deficit which she found at the end of the month by borrowing from her father, who was struggling to lay up a little for his and her mother's old age.

There are so many fine things to be proud of, for instance, to have lived within one's income, to owe no money, to know that one has been as near what in all things as one knows how to be. Why, then, must people pass these things by for others that are not fit subjects for pride at all?

prompted Peggy to say a hasty goodbye, and she hurried in to find the water boiled away and the potatoes of little further use as potatoes. But she peeled more and put them on, just as Walter Cowell put his head in the door grinning engagingly. He was big and good natured and the best tennis player in town and Peggy liked him a lot.

"What a pretty picture!" said Walter, "the neat and comely little housewife prepares the frugal meal. What are you going to have, Peggy, and if so how much? I don't know that I ever enjoyed any of your cooking. I don't know that anyone ever did," said Peggy and for fifteen minutes they chatted away, the potatoes quite forgotten. "Of course it's none of my business, Peggy, but I've got a subtle hunch that your potatoes—Alas, they had burned again, and Peggy was plunged in despair. "Shucks, let's go down to Conner's and buy a can of pork and beans," said Walter. "You dad and Tom will enjoy them and they're very easy to cook. In fact, you'll find directions on the label."

Boon for Jealous Wives.

A small crowd had gathered outside the store window where an automatic typewriter was on exhibition. Two women stopped and peered in, interestedly watching the keys bob up and down apparently of themselves. Presently one of the women turning to her companion remarked: "Jenny, that's the kind of a typewriter your husband should have in his office instead of that blonde-haired thing."

LESSONS IN DOMESTIC SCIENCE

Prepared by the AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT WASHINGTON D. C.

CONVENIENCES FOR LETTER-WRITING.

Many a farm woman finds it difficult to write letters, to make memoranda, to copy recipes, and to keep accounts, simply because she has no conveniences at hand. Her paper is in one place; her ink in another; her pen in another; and perhaps the only table which she can use must be cleared before she can find a place to write. This is unfortunate for many reasons: It cuts her off from friends who expect to hear from her and it also makes it difficult to put housekeeping on a "business basis," as we are so often told nowadays that it should be. A farm woman should know whether on the whole it costs more to buy a given article than to spend in making it time which might be otherwise employed, and she will never know until she keeps accounts. Oftentimes, too, there is a record to be kept in connection with the sale of butter, eggs, chickens, or other farm produce. It costs very little to get the necessary equipment for convenient letter writing, and account keeping (the paper, pens, erasers, paper clips, and what not), and a place in which these can be kept together and used can also be obtained at very low cost.

Just a wide shelf made of soft wood, stained and fastened to the wall at a convenient height and in a place where the light will fall upon it, preferably from the left, is far better than nothing. This can be made at home, and need not be unsightly. It should be large enough to hold a lamp as well as the usual writing materials, so it can be used comfortably in the evening. If no other sort of lumber is available, pieces of a box or packing case can often be used. If the wood is rough, sandpaper it first with coarse paper, then with fine and finally stain it. Oil stains can be obtained in many wood colors for about 15 cents a can, holding enough stain to stain several articles the size of the one described. Over this coat of prepared wax, which also can be purchased for a small sum, should be applied. If this is thoroughly rubbed in it gives a good surface, smooth and bright and not too glossy to be pleasing from the standpoint of appearance. If you are so fortunate as to have a piece of hardwood, fill it instead of staining it, for this brings out the beauty of the grain.

If something more than this is desired, make a simple desk in the form of a wall cabinet with a door or cover hinged at the bottom, which can be dropped at will to form a writing table. Such a desk as this can be supplied with little shelves to hold paper, envelopes, account books, pens, ink, erasers, etc., and it can also be supplied with a lock and key to keep the family from borrowing one's supplies. The shelf must be supported when down by chains. These can be bought for a few cents a foot.

There are many other possibilities in the way of the use of packing-box lumber for furniture, besides the one suggested; so save the best boxes that come into the house and do not let them be used for kindling wood. Much has been written about the furniture which can be made from boxes and ingenious women have learned that they may be used for many small pieces of furniture, book racks, footstools, umbrella stands, settees, chairs, washstands, dressing tables, window boxes, etc. For many of these uses the boxes are neatly covered with cretonne, denim, burlap, or some similar material, provided with hinges or mounted on casters if need be, and if used for window seats or for some similar purpose provided with a mattress or thick cushion covered like the sides of the box. For other uses the wood should be painted or stained and finished.

Household Hint

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Often discolorations on enamel ware may be removed by rubbing with a cloth dipped in vinegar. Ordinary baking soda is an excellent cleaning medium for mud stains. Dampen a cloth, dip it into the soda and rub the offending spots. If pressing is necessary do it on the wrong side of the material. Squeaking doors ought to have the hinges oiled by a feather dipped in linseed oil. Butter should always be kept in a stone jar, with the lid on tight, otherwise it is liable to absorb odors of other foods kept in the chest.

THE TABLE.

Green Corn Balls—Grate enough green corn from the cob to make two cups; into this stir a beaten egg, a teaspoonful each of sugar and melted butter, with salt to taste. Add enough flour to enable you to form the mixture into balls, roll these in flour and fry in deep fat. Green Corn Croquettes—Grate the corn from a dozen ears, or drain the liquor from a can of corn, and chop the kernels fine. Cook together a tablespoonful of butter and two of flour and, when these are blended, add slowly a pint of milk into which has been stirred a pinch of soda. Cook this mixture, stirring all the time, until you have a thick white sauce; add to it the chopped corn and half a teaspoonful of powdered sugar, with pepper and salt to taste. Remove from the fire and set aside to cool.

When cold, form with lightly floured hands into croquettes and dip each croquette in beaten egg and cracker dust. Set all aside on a platter in the ice chest for several hours, then fry in deep boiling fat. Succotash—Cut the corn from eight ears and put it into a sauce pan with a pint of young lima beans and enough salted boiling water to cover them both. Boil until the vegetables are tender; drain and turn into a double boiler with a cupful of boiling milk. Cook for ten minutes, then stir in a tablespoonful of butter and simmer for five minutes longer. Season to taste and serve. Large lima beans should be cooked ten minutes before the corn is added.

Green Pea Souffle—Boil a pint of shelled peas until tender and mash with two tablespoonfuls of melted butter. Beat three eggs light and stir into them a pint of milk and the mashed peas. Season with salt and pepper, beat hard and turn into a greased pudding dish. Bake, covered for twenty minutes, and uncover and brown. Serve this souffle as soon as it is removed from the oven.

Punch—Twelve cups of water, two cups of sugar, four lemons, one quart of grape juice, one pint of pineapple juice, one pint of strawberry juice, four oranges. Heat the water and add the sugar; squeeze the juice from the lemons and oranges and put the rinds into the syrup until it gets hot; remove rinds and when cool add the pineapple and strawberry syrup, the orange and lemon juice and finally the grape juice; pour over a block of ice in a punch bowl and serve cold.

Every Day Talks To Every Day People

(BY FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.)

A young man in our town last week for the lake. (no, we don't care to mention which lake) and before going he was advised to get a life-preserver. He hastened downtown and purchased a rubber one. This sounds like a joke—but if it was your boy or mine could we see the joke? Eh?

If you happen to be single and are going for the lake, here are a few "don'ts" to waste in your hat. Don't carry your life-preserver in a bottle. Don't lock your conscience in a downtown safe before leaving. Take it with you—you'll be back on returning. Don't take every blamed cent in the house to enable you to make a big "show," leaving the rest of the home folk mentally catatonic when you return. No! We don't mean in height!

Don't put on languid airs and profess to be a sprig of the English nobility or better yet, of our own dear "four hundred." Just be your own self. It will pay in the end. How will you feel, if after posing as the only daughter of a go-rox father, the niece and heiress of a millionaire, and calling at your door in the capacity of collector on your installment plan piano. If you are just plain folks don't fly too high. This is not a bad suggestion. I have seen a girl who thinks she is far and away above just plain folks. When it comes right down to bed-rock, how many of us are there? How many of us are even that?

Don't forget that every action brings a result; that for everyone there will always be a tomorrow—if you don't celebrate your tomorrow in time you will be eternally, that is, not half as gloomy as it seems. Read it again! Don't forget that it is not necessary to speak unkindly of another, even though you know it to be true. Be honest as a good conversationalist. To be on the front bench in conversation row is no proof of true education—unless, of course, you happen to be a chameleon locust. A steady whistle voice is no asset to any girl and is not absolutely necessary to attract attention to the fact that you are in the vicinity. Girls who were possessed of gentle voices have often had men friends, and it is an historical fact that a soft, low voice is a powerful magnet. Don't forget that.

Did you ever wonder why it is that when a good moving picture show comes to your town—one that will instruct as well as amuse children—all the children are noticeable for their absence? But you can enter any playhouse, any day or evening, and find children seeing, hearing things that are rather undermining to a young child's moral foundation. Do you keep track of the picture plays that are worth taking or sending your children to? Everything has its uses and abuses. Do you know how to use the "movies," to help your family?

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two sister-twins. No. 1 is very fleshy and No. 2 is slender. We are quite distressed about it, as we would like to dress alike.

(1) Please tell us what No. 1 can do to reduce her flesh and No. 2 can do to gain more weight. I am a school or musician, make your self attractive and DON'T act as if you wanted to catch a man.

(2) My dear friends, it is always a woman's privilege to make a mistake of her age. My own husband is still guessing, and I mean to keep him so.

(3) No. 2 is a stranger in the city where we reside and would like to make the acquaintance of a nice, refined young man (who is matrimonially inclined, as she would like to give up her state of single blessedness. Please advise her.

(4) From your photograph I should imagine you are quite youthful, but you surely give foolish young girls some very fine advice. Please give me some more, but would you mind telling us your age?

NO. 1 AND NO. 2. (1) I should judge that it is perfectly natural for one of you to be fleshy and the other thin, in such cases it is almost impossible to change. However, No. 1 might try a change in her diet; eat less and stop all starchy food, sweets, pastries, fat meats and rich gravies. Lean meats, acid fruits and vegetables, dry or toasted bread, tea and coffee in moderation, make a good diet for fleshy people who would be thin. Exercise that produces perspiration also tends to take down flesh.

To grow fleshier eat the fat-forming foods, sleep a great deal, don't worry about anything, take deep breathing exercises and get a moderate amount of outdoor exercise—never violent exercise. Take things easy.

(2) It is difficult to advise when I don't know the kind of music the man is naturally meant to be almost impossible to cure him.

Sometimes a wife's actions tempt a man to abuse her. Tell your sister to think over things and see if any of the fault is hers—it might be without her knowing it. Perhaps she needs to stick up for her rights more, or perhaps she scolds too much, or it may be something else that makes him bad-tempered.

(3) Join the church societies, mix with your friends, get into a dancing school, or musician club, make your self attractive and DON'T act as if you wanted to catch a man.

(4) My dear friends, it is always a woman's privilege to make a mistake of her age. My own husband is still guessing, and I mean to keep him so.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I wish to ask your advice on the following subjects:

(1) What should you say to a person who takes you home from a party?

(2) I am fourteen years old and am a second semester high school pupil. Am I far enough advanced?

(3) Which do you consider most intimate for the salutation of a letter, "Dear" or "My Dear"?

(4) How can I have a Sunday dress made?

(5) Is flowered veiling in style?

H. N.

(1) Thank him for escorting you safely home.

(2) I think you are well advanced, my dear.

(3) "My Dear" is considered a little less formal than "Dear."

(4) A very girlish style now popular is a skirt with several dounces and a wide sash. The waist can be surplice fashion or cut with a vest and coatee effect. The new collars are wired to stand up around the neck and still show the throat although collarless gowns are still very much the mode. Have the sleeves elbow length, finished with ruffles to match the skirt.

(5) Flowered veiling is worn.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: My fingers are so much wider than my nails. Could you tell me how to make them narrower? READER.

You might try getting thin all over, which would be the only way to make your fingers thinner. If the ends of the fingers are very fleshy, try pinching them, pulling toward the end, wearing a thimble on each finger at night might in time cause the finger to taper somewhat. You would probably need to wear gloves

Peggy &amp; Company

Wherein Potatoes au Gratin Are Scratched From the Menu and Replaced With Pork and Beans.

In spite of moods and petulance mingled with irrefragable discouragement and gloom, Peggy has brought herself to view her present unhappy situation with a little philosophy. It seems to her that as long as she must manage the house and prepare the meals she might just as well do her best. After father and Tom had had their grumpy breakfast and after the beds were made Peggy sank into an easy chair and thought the matter over. Then it was that something happened to her that was quite unusual. She had an idea. Why not show them that she could really cook a palatable meal if she tried? She hurried into the kitchen and set about it.

Let's see, what could she make that would be sure to please and surprise them? They both loved au gratin potatoes. She peeled and put them out to boil and then assumed an expression of perplexity. There seemed to be some uncertainty with Peggy as to their proper preparation. Helen Peary made lovely ones, and Peggy dashed to the phone to call her up. Just when do you put the gratin in, was what Peggy wanted to know. Helen laughed and told Peggy how and when and why and what first and thought it up together with a full account of the best sort of cheese for the purpose and where it could be had, and then she spoke eloquently of the uses of cheese in general and all that could be done with it in cooking, which reminded her that she had just returned from a short stay at Atlantic City and the Websters were there—from New York, you know, they spent a week with Helen last summer, surely Peggy remembers them. They.

A vague, though pungent, odor prompted Peggy to say a hasty goodbye, and she hurried in to find the water boiled away and the potatoes of little further use as potatoes. But she peeled more and put them on, just as Walter Cowell put his head in the door grinning engagingly. He was big and good natured and the best tennis player in town and Peggy liked him a lot.

"What a pretty picture!" said Walter, "the neat and comely little housewife prepares the frugal meal. What are you going to have, Peggy, and if so how much? I don't know that I ever enjoyed any of your cooking. I don't know that anyone ever did," said Peggy and for fifteen minutes they chatted away, the potatoes quite forgotten. "Of course it's none of my business, Peggy, but I've got a subtle hunch that your potatoes—Alas, they had burned again, and Peggy was plunged in despair. "Shucks, let's go down to Conner's and buy a can of pork and beans," said Walter. "You dad and Tom will enjoy them and they're very easy to cook. In fact, you'll find directions on the label."

Boon for Jealous Wives. A small crowd had gathered outside the store window where an automatic typewriter was on exhibition. Two women stopped and peered in, interestedly watching the keys bob up and down apparently of themselves. Presently one of the women turning to her companion remarked: "Jenny, that's the kind of a typewriter your husband should have in his office instead of that blonde-haired thing."

LESSONS IN DOMESTIC SCIENCE. Prepared by the AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT WASHINGTON D. C.

CONVENIENCES FOR LETTER-WRITING. Many a farm woman finds it difficult to write letters, to make memoranda, to copy recipes, and to keep accounts, simply because she has no conveniences at hand. Her paper is in one place; her ink in another; her pen in another; and perhaps the only table which she can use must be cleared before she can find a place to write. This is unfortunate for many reasons: It cuts her off from friends who expect to hear from her and it also makes it difficult to put housekeeping on a "business basis," as we are so often told nowadays that it should be. A farm woman should know whether on the whole it costs more to buy a given article than to spend in making it time which might be otherwise employed, and she will never know until she keeps accounts. Oftentimes, too, there is a record to be kept in connection with the sale of butter, eggs, chickens, or other farm produce. It costs very little to get the necessary equipment for convenient letter writing, and account keeping (the paper, pens, erasers, paper clips, and what not), and a place in which these can be kept together and used can also be obtained at very low cost.

Just a wide shelf made of soft wood, stained and fastened to the wall at a convenient height and in a place where the light will fall upon it, preferably from the left, is far better than nothing. This can be made at home, and need not be unsightly. It should be large enough to hold a lamp as well as the usual writing materials, so it can be used comfortably in the evening. If no other sort of lumber is available, pieces of a box or packing case can often be used. If the wood is rough, sandpaper it first with coarse paper, then with fine and finally stain it. Oil stains can be obtained in many wood colors for about 15 cents a can, holding enough stain to stain several articles the size of the one described. Over this coat of prepared wax, which also can be purchased for a small sum, should be applied. If this is thoroughly rubbed in it gives a good surface, smooth and bright and not too glossy to be pleasing from the standpoint of appearance. If you are so fortunate as to have a piece of hardwood, fill it instead of staining it, for this brings out the beauty of the grain.

If something more than this is desired, make a simple desk in the form of a wall cabinet with a door or cover hinged at the bottom, which can be dropped at will to form a writing table. Such a desk as this can be supplied with little shelves to hold paper, envelopes, account books, pens, ink, erasers, etc., and it can also be supplied with a lock and key to keep the family from borrowing one's supplies. The shelf must be supported when down by chains. These can be bought for a few cents a foot.

There are many other possibilities in the way of the use of packing-box lumber for furniture, besides the one suggested; so save the best boxes that come into the house and do not let them be used for kindling wood. Much has been written about the furniture which can be made from boxes and ingenious women have learned that they may be used for many small pieces of furniture, book racks, footstools, umbrella stands, settees, chairs, washstands, dressing tables, window boxes, etc. For many of these uses the boxes are neatly covered with cretonne, denim, burlap, or some similar material, provided with hinges or mounted on casters if need be, and if used for window seats or for some similar purpose provided with a mattress or thick cushion covered like the sides of the box. For other uses the wood should be painted or stained and finished.

over the thimbles to keep the latter on.

Remedy for Drowsiness. Drowsiness during the day, if a person has slept well the night before, is often caused by indigestion. Often this is remedied by drinking something very hot like cocoa or coffee. The brain needs a mild stimulant. Lassi-tude of the body is not always an indication of illness or laziness.

Distribution. The longer I live the more I am persuaded that the gifts of Providence are more equally distributed than we are apt to think. Among the poor so little is enjoyed so much, and among the rich so much is enjoyed so little. —Margaret Bottoms.

First Hours of Sleep the Best. It has been proved conclusively that the first hours of sleep are deeper than the rest and that with the length the tendency to wake at any noise increases. From this follows the recuperative value of the few first hours of deep sleep and the explanation why men of great energy like Napoleon, Frederick the Great and Virchow were completely satisfied with a sleep of from three to four hours.

Evil in Chewing Starch. The habit of chewing starch is at the rate of 2,500,000 a year. It is said to be gaining ground among girls, especially in laundries. A doctor declares its effects are as injurious as those of morphine or cocaine.

ENJOY A RECEPTION ON GOLDEN WEDDING

Dr. and Mrs. L. A. Platte of Milton Receive Congratulations of a Host of Friends.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Milton, July 8.—A very happy event took place at the Milton S. D. B. church last Saturday night, when an informal reception was given to Dr. and Mrs. L. A. Platte on the eve of the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. A large number of people thronged the church between the hours of eight and ten to offer loving congratulations. President Daland at the pipe organ and Mrs. Ellen Platte with her violin rendered beautiful music. In response to Pastor Randolph's question eighteen people stood up, indicating that they were present at the wedding fifty years before. J. D. Bond described the scene, the large crowd present at the commencement occasion, the wedding ceremony at the close, the rain, and Elder Stillman. Coon holding his big umbrella over the happy couple like a benediction. Wide President Whitford pronounced the solemn words of the ceremony. Mrs. Henry Osborne added her vivid impression of the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Sherrill Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. George Langhorne, having already passed their golden wedding mark, were called on to give advice, which each one did in characteristic fashion. Principal Vernon Hurley spoke in behalf of the large number who had been received into the Milton church during Dr. Platte's thirteen year pastorate. J. C. Barltolt paid a tribute to the valuable service rendered at Battle Creek in the early days of the S. D. B. church there. Pastor Jordan spoke feelingly in behalf of the people of Milton Junction and of his own tender recollections of Dr. Platte's pastoral care years ago. Pastor Randolph then presented to Dr. and Mrs. Platte, as a token of the loving regard of hosts of friends, fifty dollars in gold. He was a little in doubt which to hand it to, but Mrs. Platte held the coin while the Doctor spoke, and he held it while she spoke. Dr. and Mrs. Platte responded in expressions of heart felt appreciation, giving very interesting reminiscences of the past and looking forward to happy reunions in the brighter life beyond. The hushed attention paid to their words, the hand clasps, the glowing faces, gave expression to the hearts of the people. Dr. A. Platts, Jr. of Chicago, sang a song. A delighted audience would not let him go until he had sung two more. Last of all the band came and played "Silver Threads Among the Gold" bringing the evening to a very fitting close.

Mr. Wescott of Los Angeles, California, is visiting Milton relatives.

At the annual school meeting held Monday evening O. B. Hall was elected clerk and the usual appropriations made. The addition of a course in domestic science will be decided on at a special meeting to be held next month.

BIRD CENSUS WILL BE COMPLETED SOON

Expect Report Will Show that Number of Birds are on Increase Instead of Decrease.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, July 8.—Officials of the biological survey in the department of agriculture hope soon to be able to announce the most accurate count ever made of the birds in the United States. Reports from some of the hundreds of nature-lovers around the country who have enlisted as volunteer enumerators have been coming in, reflecting an enthusiastic interest in the count.

When the census was decided upon about 25 bird enthusiasts in all sections of the country who had previously rendered valuable service were asked to supply the desired information, and in addition to these several hundred others volunteered their aid. The counting has been going on since June 1, and will probably be completed by July 1, but it probably will be some time before the last of the returns are in and announcement made of the total bird population. The census will not include the waterfowl, as these are counted in the solemn words of the ceremony. Mrs. Henry Osborne added her vivid impression of the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Sherrill Clarke, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Shaw and Mr. and Mrs. George Langhorne, having already passed their golden wedding mark, were called on to give advice, which each one did in characteristic fashion. ## What To Do With Our Dull Children

By Prof. M. V. O'Shea, Department of Education, University of Wisconsin.

Article No. 1.

We always have the dull child with us. Every parent knows that the naturally bright child appears sometimes to be dull. And then there is the child who is clearly behind others of his age. He does not get on well in school, for one thing. He may fail a year or two behind his proper grade, and when this happens he becomes a source of trouble to every one himself included. This child may not be as quick in understanding what is said to him in the home as he ought to be, and this leads to his being scolded by those who think he is wilfully negligent. There are children of this type who are hardly ever free from censure, either in the school or in the home.

What can be the cause of this unhappy condition? During the past ten or fifteen years men in all parts of the world have been investigating the dull child. They have discovered a variety of conditions that may produce dullness here, the more prominent and prevalent of these conditions will be mentioned at this time. We will leave aside, with merely mentioning it, one cause of dullness which is due wholly to the way in which children are trained from the second or third year up to maturity. This is the lack of mental concentration. No child can get along very well in the home or in the school unless he can keep his mind on the thing which is being said to him, or the task which has been assigned him, or the work he is trying to accomplish. If he is distracted by everything that is happening around him, he will be certain to fall behind in the school; and he will be a cause of annoyance in the home, because he cannot read, or do his homework, or do anything in modern life which tends to produce scattermindedness; but this subject must be discussed at another time.

Men who have been investigating this matter of dullness have recently called attention to certain physical defects found in many children, all of which seriously handicap them in their mental work. The first is defective vision. At least 45 per cent of all children over the age of five have defective eyesight to such an extent that if it is not corrected they will be unable to do their school work. The child may be long-sighted or short-sighted, or worse still, the very common defect known as astigmatism, and if these defects are not corrected by proper glasses, the child will be using his nervous force all the time to overcome eyestrain, and he will tend to become inert, unresponsive, dull and even stupid. There is but one kind of cure for such a child; fit him with glasses prescribed by a competent specialist. No parent of a child over five years of age should let his eyes go without having his eyes tested by a capable man. Even if he is bright, his eyes should be examined so that if there is any difficulty it may be overcome in early years, before it becomes a serious handicap.

Antiquity of Geology.
Authentic evidence has been found which carries geology back, as a human study, as far as the bronze age. Herr O. Merkel claims that he has discovered that fossils were intelligently collected at that remote period of European history. In a cinerary urn of that age, he has found two or three specimens of each of 68 species of fossil shells, with some of the modern Mediterranean shells for comparison.

FEARFUL HUMOR COVERED FACE— RESINOL CURED

Petersen, N. J., Dec. 9, 1913: "About a year ago my face began to crack and get scaly in blotches. It soon got worse and my face was all spotted and rough, and it itched me very much at night, and caused me no end of discomfort. After a month or so, pimples and blackheads began to show, first in small numbers and then gradually covering my entire face. It was awful. The pimples were sore and the rash was itchy and my face had a most unsightly appearance. I could get no relief. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment caused me instant relief. By the time another jar of Resinol Ointment and cake of Resinol Soap were gone, I can truthfully say that it was a complete cure. My face had assumed its former color and looks, due to Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. They are, I think, the best for any skin trouble."

Janesville People Are Pleased to Learn How It Has Been Done.

It's pretty hard to attend to duties

With a constantly aching back;

With annoying urinary disorders.

Doan's Kidney Pills have made work easier.

So thousands have gratefully testified.

They're for bad backs.

They're for weak kidneys.

Janesville people gratefully recommend Doan's.

S. E. Moore, carpenter, 615 Park Ave., Janesville, Wis., says: "I think the straining and stooping I have to do in my carpenter work is responsible for my kidneys getting out of order. I had pains through the small of my back. When I stooped over to nail a base board, I could hardly get up again. I used different medicines but wasn't benefited. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills. It was Doan's Kidney Pills that quickly stopped the pain in my back. My kidneys began to do their work as they should and I was able to straighten without suffering. I am glad to tell other kidney sufferers about Doan's Kidney Pills because I know just what this remedy will do."

The Lapse of Enoch Wentworth

By ISABEL GORDON CURTIS.

Author of "The Woman from Webster."

Illustrations by Ellsworth Young

Copyright, 1914, by F. G. Browne & Co.

From a shadowy corner near the residence of Merry rose and crept across the room. He dropped on his knees beside her and soothed her without a word, as one broods over an unhappy child. The warm grip in which he held her hand between his own gave her courage and hope. She rose to her feet and he led her to the window where she sat down and looked out into the dark, quiet square. Out of her memory rose the thought of an early morning—it was only a year ago—when she had seen Andrew Merry for the first time, stretched listlessly on the park bench, with a gray, thin fog occasionally blotting him from her sight. It was here, too, she had sat watching children scuffle through wind-blown leaves, while she heard her brother read the manuscript of

"The House of Esterbrook." Merry

sat silent at her side until the nurse entered the room.

"Miss Wentworth," she said, "Dr.

Mowbray wants you. Your brother has been conscious for a few minutes. He cannot speak, but he wants something.

Will you come?"

They followed the woman swiftly.

Enoch's eyes sought hers with piteous pleading which was almost agony. She bent to kiss him. His gaze traveled to Merry and the agony seemed to change to peace.

"You saved his life, Enoch," she whispered.

Andrew laid his fingers gently upon the nerveless hand which rested outside the sheet. The eyes of the two men met: In those of one was a mute prayer for forgiveness, in the other's shone gratitude and the old affection grew steadfast.

"Enoch's lips moved. He was trying to speak. Dorcas laid her ear close to his mouth.

"He wants his keys," she said quickly.

The nurse left the bedside and returned with a bunch of small keys strung upon a steel ring. Dorcas laid them in her brother's hand. It was pitifully inert! She lifted them and ran them through her fingers, one by one, as a Catholic tells her beads in a rosary. Her gaze was fixed upon his eager eyes. When she touched a shining brass key a gleam of relief shone in the man's beseeching eyes. She rose to her feet.

"I will go at once, Enoch, and find it. I shall know what you want, whatever it is, and will bring it to you."

The doctor followed Merry and Dorcas to the door. "Don't come back unless I send for you. The exertion has been too much for him."

"This is the key to a small drawer in Enoch's desk," explained the girl.

"I can probably guess what he wants.

"I ought to show it to him. If his mind is set on something he may sleep quietly when he knows I have found it."

"I will call you if he does not sleep," said the doctor.

Merry walked to the window and stared vaguely into the darkness. A little clock on the mantel struck three.

Once he looked over his shoulder at Dorcas. He could hear the crackle of stiff paper as she unfolded a few long, narrow sheets which were tied in a thin bundle.

"I have found Enoch's will and a number of business papers. Here are his bankbooks and the contract with Oswald for the play. There are bonds and things of that sort—things I do not understand. I imagine," the girl's voice broke into a sob, "it must be the will he wants."

"Probably it is, dear," said Andrew gently. She laid the papers on the desk and lifted a yellow envelope.

There was no writing upon it; it was unsealed. She took out a slip of paper and stood motionless while she read it. Then her fingers moved in a groping way to turn on a blaze of electricity under the green globe above the desk.

"The room is so dark," she murmured.

She dropped the paper upon the desk with her face between her hands.

"Andrew," cried Dorcas with a stifled moan, "come here!"

He crossed the room and stood looking down over the girl's shoulder.

"See," she whispered, "see what I have found! Tell me what it is?" Her fingers pointed to the bond. She

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, July 8, 1874.—Immediately after eight o'clock last evening at the meeting of the fourth of July committee, Capt. Van Kirk took the chair and the work of setting up commenced.

The flag staff at the court house wants some improvement. As things stand now a flag raised there seems scarcely more than a half mast high, and the bunting is worn out by contact with the tower.

Rock River will soon run low enough to permit passage anywhere without recourse to the bridges; but we hope the council will repair the bridges notwithstanding.

A. C. Hudson of Milton, not the accomplished elocutionist, narrowly escaped death on Monday night. The harness becoming disarranged, the horse bolted, broke its own leg, smashed the vehicle and injured the driver's ribs and back.

The heat recently has not been so bad as on many former occasions, but the steaminess of the atmosphere made it more oppressive than yesterday or Monday.

Shows are almost unanimously giving Janesville the cold shoulder and "passing by on the side." Have we fallen among unwise people that impound too many stamps by way of license?

The thunder storm which began last night soon after six o'clock, proved very refreshing. The lightning was very brilliant and the thunder crashing.

The aldermen may have a lively time this evening as the question of license fees for shows of all kinds coming to Janesville will be brought forward and may occasion some discussion.

There are abundant and welcome signs of continued showers. We can hardly have too many showers just now.
